

Do you have BIPOLAR DEPRESSION that has not been helped with traditional treatments?

If you have bipolar disorder and have been suffering from an episode of depression that has not been successfully treated you may qualify to take part in the RECOVER study

VNS Therapy™ has been
FDA approved
since 2005

The RECOVER study is a research study that will provide new information about how helpful VNS Therapy is for patients with bipolar depression that has been difficult to treat.

To join the RECOVER study you must be 18 years or older and:

- Currently depressed
- Have bipolar depression, that has lasted for at least two years or recurred several times
- Have tried at least four types of antidepressant treatments and not found them helpful
- Be receiving at least one mood stabilizing medication

For more information regarding this study being conducted by Dr. Horacio Capote, please contact :

Michelle Rainka, PharmD
Dent Neurosciences Research Center
716-250-2037
mrainka@dentinstitute.com

To visit the RECOVER website scan the code with your phone and follow the link provided or visit www.RECOVERvns.com